He was preceded in death by his parents, Don Aguirre and Bertha Aguirre; brother, Robert Aguirre; grandparents, Antonio and Dolores Manzanares and godson, Adam Jennings. George is survived by his children, Apryl Barela and Lisa (Andrew) Marquez; grandchildren, Kayla Barela, Marcus (Jayde) Aguirre ( whom he thought of as a son), Destiny Barela, Isaiah Marquez, Jade Marquez, Jocelyn Marquez, Jaiden Carrera and Cristian Carrera; great grandchildren, Romeo and Gabriella; godchildren, Randy Moore and Chantell Valdez; mother of his children and life long friend, Yolanda Aguirre; brother, Viviano Aguirre; brothers-in-law, Danny Cruz, Roy (Barbara) Gonzales and Chaz Gonzales; sisters-in-law, Renee Alvarez, Bernadette (Richard) Stockman and Antoinette (Randy) Moore; special friend, Tracy Binol; and numerous aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces, nephews, extended family and friends. George enjoyed swimming, bike riding, water rafting and exercising especially being able to do them with his grandchildren. He enjoyed martial arts, and became a 3rd degree black belt and eventually an instructor himself. George had a love for boxing, he himself boxed, coached and enjoyed attending boxing matches. He especially loved being there to support his son-in-law as well as his cousins at their fights. George had a great love for music and is well remembered for playing his guitar, his singing while going to Karaoke, jamming out to music, or just blurting out a song at any given moment. He had a passion for helping and healing others, which he displayed through his careers in both massage and physical therapy, as well as his every day life by always taking the time to do his best to help others, whether it be offering companionship or a helping hand to anyone who needed it, whether you were family, a friend, or even a complete stranger. While George loved many things his greatest love was for his family. He took every opportunity to spend time with them, be there to show his support in all that they did and let them know they were loved. He made sure to be at every one of his grandchildren's events/games that he could and enjoyed dropping in at his grandsons shop to check out his latest project or just to chat. His presence will be missed. No matter what life threw his way, as long as he was surrounded by his family his heart was content. George was a man who fought hard and loved strong and his legacy will always live on through them.
