“ We knew Brenda over a period of several years. No matter the situation or mood she was in she always had a smile on her face and open arms for a hug. She always commented on how good we smelled and would hold on for a bit longer just to smell us. I would always go to her wherever she was sitting and she would grab me around my waist and hold ever so tight and I would bend down and kiss her on the top of her head. This routine happened every single time we bumped into each other. When she got her apartment on fourth street she was so excited to show it to us and even comment how everything was finally coming together We had many conversations about the various tragedies that had befallen her with her son and her husband. She always spoke of how broken she was with those two losses and never got over either one. She is in a place now where all are reunited. It is a terrible loss for those of us who love her and miss her but she is happy and content and that is all anyone can ask for. Brenda, fly with angels and guard us left behind with your magnificent wings. Love, Peace and Prayers.

Sincerely,

Billy Jones and Troy Sinclair

We offer our deepest and sincere condolences to those she left behind and our hearts go out to each and every one of you.
