Elizabeth loved life. She also loved and cherished her family with her whole heart. Her calming spirit was like a warm blanket on a frigid day. Love for her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ was always a part of her work and life. Helping underserved communities like the poor and migrant population was a calling that was close to her heart. She put all her energy into helping others improve their lives. In addition to helping others grow she was especially talented at growing flowers in her big, beautiful yard. She spent her free time in her yard tending to her flowers and her many grandchildren teaching them the joy of nature. The greatest part of her legacy lies within her family and the love she conveyed. She spoke of her and Jay as being soulmates and he quickly agreed. She knew when to hold on and pray and when to let go. Her ability to heal others was undeniable. She was a blessing to so many people and her spiritual gifts were shared with such generosity. Liz was an incredible person and her and she will be forever loved!

“ Blessings of peace and love to all Liz' family. What a blessing Liz was to this life. She is one of the most thoughtful, loving individual I have met in my life and I am grateful that we crossed paths. She indeed would do all she can to help people. She is a fantastic role model of social work and community service. She taught me alot & demonstrated to me counseling and serving. A person could sense her love and sincerity in all she did for people. Thank you Gracias Liz for everything you taught us. ❤️🙏
