“ It's impossible to bring words to mind that describe the feelings and emotions that a person feels right now. The awesome memories of watching you grow up. When you were learning the names of cars, poking holes in my stereo speakers, going with me to Bandimere, riding in the Talon saying, "Go Faster Uncle Ben, Go Faster, Fast and the Furious" and doing donuts. You are more than a nephew to me; you are my son. I wanted only the best in life for you. I wanted to see you fulfill your dreams and callings. I tried to protect you from the bad and dark things of this world. I looked forward to your smiles and jokes. Now I count the days until I see your big bright smile again. I love you buddy.

“ I'll never forget all the times we had collecting rocks ever since he was around 4 or 5 years old. One of our greatest memories is laying on top of the bed telling stories, mostly of my childhood
