“ Although I did not know John very well, you could not grow up on Pueblo's east side without knowing the Pacheco family. I was at East High with his brother Jerry, and Joey and I were good friends for many years. My mother remembers him for the work he did for her at her home in Belmont. Their house was always full of family and I remember enjoying going there with Joey as something was always going on! My very sincere condolences to his family and friends.
