“ I Have so many memories of you brother, old and more recent. Sometimes you made me angry when you were a brat (expected with siblings) but mostly you were funny and always smiling. You always looked at the bright side of things and were positive. You made it a point to tell people you cared about that they were important to you and apologize when you were wrong about something. You were massively loved and will be greatly missed, but I don't think I need to tell you that. You already know. Love you. <3
