“ I knew I could not get up on the podium today but I wanted to share this about Ray. Ray was a son, nephew , father, grandfather, brother, uncle, cousin and dear friend to many. The loss of Ray is just unimaginable. We met Ray through our son, Zack, years ago and after that he was like family. He and Zack were inseparable. He was at get-togethers, holidays, games, you name it . Ray never met a stranger. He was friendly, personable, professional, easy-going and boy could he run a car business. In the short time he stayed with us, he cooked and he cooked good. He mowed the lawn. He told us he had not mowed a lawn since he was a kid. We laughed and laughed. I got he and my husband an Elway t-shirt for the first Bronco game this season. He was like a kid at Christmas. He loved the Broncos, movies of all kinds and he knew his history of sports better than any broadcaster. Ray was caring, compassionate. Held in all negativity - never had a bad thing to say about anyone. He spoke of his children in high regard. He loved each and everyone of you. He spoke of his mom and dad with the utmost respect. Family was everything to Ray. He spoke of Jackie and what a great husband she had and the nieces. Bri he spoke of how hard you fought after a car accident. As hard as it was, we talked about Zack, who passed away 1 year ago. He and Ray were inseparable. We shared stories laughed, cried. They were brothers. Ray took Zack's passing hard. Today, together again! One last thing, you don't ever have to feel guilty about removing toxic people from your life. If they disregard your feelings and leave you in a harmful way they need to go. Ray you're at peace now. Sending love and hugs to all those grieving Rays loss today.....Love, Val

“ I have many great memories of my cousin Ray. He always made me laugh. He always had the biggest smile on his handsome face. I think when we were adults we both lived in Colorado Springs and we went to the clubs and danced all night. We had the best times together. I will miss him forever! He is one of my favorites.

I love you Ray. RIP 💙
